

Processing Orders on SevenFifty

Orders sent by your customers through Sevenfifty will automatically show up in your accounts, effectively creating draft orders. This saves time and guarantees your customers get exactly what they wanted.

Below is a review of how buyers send orders and how you can process them in seconds.

Buyer View on SevenFifty

Your customers enter quantities and add items to a cart in a couple clicks.

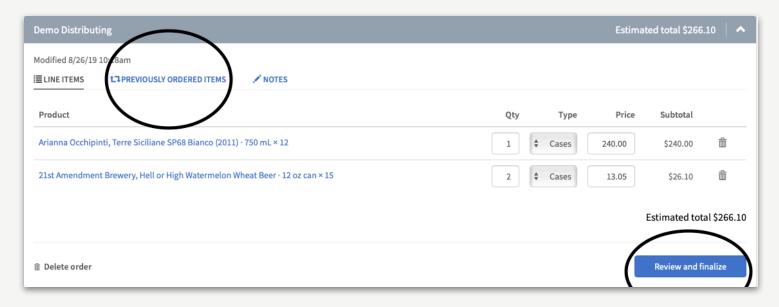

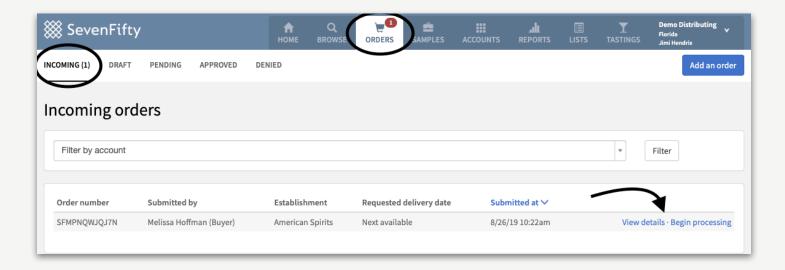

Buyer Draft Orders

Buyers see the full product description along with package size and vintage when creating a draft order. They can also see "Previously Ordered Items" making it easier than ever to send you reorders.

Process "Incoming" Orders

When the buyer sends the order you'll receive an email notification and an alert in your SevenFifty account of an incoming order. From the orders tab select "Begin Processing" to convert it into a draft order.

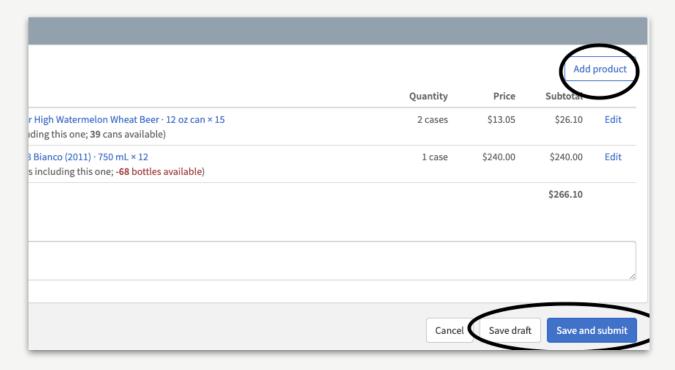

Edit "Incoming" Orders

You can easily add products, adjust quantities, or remove line items from incoming orders before submitting them. If you need to save your order and return to it later, select "Save draft".

Buyers receive automated email confirmations after you submit incoming orders. For any others you create and submit yourself you'll have the option to send a confirmation.
